

Editorial

It is our privilege to present the inaugural issue of online “Key” Journal (Volume 1, Issue 1), an academic multidisciplinary biannual peer reviewed journal launched by Manipur International University, Ghari, Imphal, Manipur, India in open-access platform. The intension of Key Journal is to create an atmosphere that stimulates vision, research and growth in multidisciplinary areas.

The journal began with a goal to inspire new ideas connect different disciplines and support academic growth. It invites research articles, reviews short pieces, and case studies from people across the globe, including scholars and experts.

It carves its own niche for itself as every effort is given to a well-experienced editorial team to make the publication available at the earliest possible time (Online first mode) with a minimal processing charge without compromising any of scholarly fineness of the journal.

This multidisciplinary journal gives space to academic groups of worldwide to share research tackling tough real-world problems aiming at to develop sustainable practices and connect science social studies, and humanities. Each issue puts out thoughtful, quality research meant to shape policies, inform practices, and deepen academic conversations overall.

Lastly but not the least, I express my sincere gratitude to our Editorial/Review Board, Authors and Publication Team for their continued support, invaluable contributions and suggestions in the form at authoring writeups/reviewing and providing constructive comments for advancement of the journal, with regards to their due continuous support and cooperation. We have been able to publish quality research/review findings for our customer’s base.

We hope you will enjoy reading this inaugural Key Journal issue and we welcome your valuable feedback on any aspect of the Journal and try to disseminate to the Learned Research scientist regarding this Journal.

Prof. Potsangbam Kumar Singh
Chief Editor, Key Journal